

PUBLIC CHARGE:

MAKE THE RIGHT CHOICE FOR YOUR FAMILY

WHAT IS PUBLIC CHARGE?

Public charge is a part of federal immigration law under which someone can be denied a visa or green card if federal officials determine that the person is likely to rely on government support for their livelihood.

FINAL RULE

EFFECTIVE OCTOBER 15, 2019, the federal government will change how it makes public charge decisions. Once effective, immigration officials will look more closely at certain factors—such as financial status, health, age, and English language skill—and to determine if an immigrant is using or likely to use

- Medicaid (EXCEPT FOR emergency Medicaid, Medicaid for pregnant women and people under 21 years old (All Kids, Moms & Babies), or services under the Immigrants with Disabilities Education Act)
- Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP, “EBT” or “Food Stamps”)
- Many federal housing programs
- Cash assistance (TANF, General Assistance)

Immigration officials handling visa and green card applications in other countries are already asking more questions about income and resources of immigrants and sponsors. But those changes do not affect immigration decisions made in the U.S.

GET HELP MAKING THE RIGHT CHOICE

- The rule was finalized August 14, 2019 but does not take effect until October 15, 2019. Until October 15, the list of new benefits (Medicaid, SNAP, federal housing programs) will not count towards public charge.
- For those who will be subject to public charge, the 60-day transition period can be used to gather information from a trusted organization to help inform your decision about whether or not to stay enrolled in critical public programs.
- Generally, benefits used by your U.S. citizen children should not count against you; however, your overall household financial status will be considered.
- Every family’s public charge analysis is different, and the programs that help your family might not even be covered by the government’s proposed changes.
- Many organizations are available to help. An immigration attorney familiar with this issue can give you advice based on your specific situation. Local nonprofits may also be able to provide help and legal advice.
